Northwind Outfitters: Annual Report

Northwind Outfitters sells outdoor equipment through 38 shops and an online store. The company was founded in 1998 in the town of Kelby by Maren Aldous. It employs 1,240 people, of whom 310 work in its two warehouses.

This year the company opened six new shops and closed two. Its best-selling product was the Ridgeline tent, with 41,000 units sold. Returns fell to 3.1 percent of orders, from 4.6 percent the year before.

Revenue

Total revenue for the year was 25.0 million dollars, up 18 percent.
Online orders made up 44 percent of revenue.

Outlook

As Figure 1 shows, the fourth quarter was the strongest of the year, driven by the winter range and the opening of the Kelby flagship shop.

For next year the company plans ten new shops and a third warehouse.
It expects revenue of 30 million dollars.
